

HISS Dubna Song

Text: David Blaschke, after "Gaudeamus igitur" by C.W. Kindleben (1781)

Melody: unknown

History: Johannes Brahms received the honorary doctorate from the University of Wroclaw. On that occasion, he composed the "Akademic Festival Overture" where he quoted the song: "Gaudeamus Igitur" in the final section. This song became famous among student associations and is celebrated at student assemblies ...

Reminder: Gaudeamus Igitur

||: Gaudeamus igitur, iuvenes dum sumus :||
Post juncundam juventutem
Post molestam senectutem
||: Nos habebit hu-u-mus :||

||: Dubna Helmholtz Summer School - superdense and overcool :||
Quarkyonic is the matter
Now we understand it better
||: At the Dubna Helmholtz Summer School :||

||: Two weeks at the Volga beach, experts from all world do teach :||
How colliding heavy ions
Do create a lot of pions
||: Good that FAIR and NICA are in reach :||

||: Lectures in Bogoliubov's Lab, coffee breaks - they cheer us up :||
Problem solving, soft-skill training
When it's sunny or it's raining
||: We are captured in the Conference hall :||

||: Fireball and star that cools, we were told the iron rules :||
At the farewell we are singing
The conclusion we are bringing:
||: Let's come back to Dubna's Summer Schools :||
